In recent years, JASW's approach often has been to focus on specialized areas: economics and business, the role of women, agricultural trade, energy, the domestic origins of regional tensions, and so on. Thanks to a grant from the Sasakawa Peace Foundation, the Society's *Japan in 20: A Look at the Year Ahead program brings together Japan experts from government, academia, the think tanks, and the non-profit sector for a one-day seminar to discuss these topics and look at the year ahead for Japan, both domestically and internationally.

With support from Sasakawa Peace Foundation, the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace and the National Association of Japan-America Societies, Japan in 2016: A Look at the Year Ahead will be held on Thursday, January 21. Please mark your calendars. We hope you will join us.
